- You'll have plenty of choice! ...
- Caol Ila distillery is the largest on Islay, producing up to 3 million litres of whisky per year. Located on the north eastern shores, the distillery has magnificent views across the Sound of Islay to the spectacular Paps of Jura.
- Kilchoman, built in 2005 and located in the North West of the island in close proximity to one of Islay's most spectacular beaches, Machir Bay.
- Lagavulin is the oldest working distillery on the island. Historic records show that illegal distilling went on here as far back as 1742.
- Laphroaig have been producing their distinctive whisky since 1815 at the head of Loch Laphroaig in Islay's South Coast.
- Bunnahabhain's wonderful distillery offers some of the most scenic views on Islay.
- Bowmore distillery, which lies on the South Eastern shore of Loch Indaal, is one of the oldest in Scotland. It was established in 1779 and the oldest distillery on Islay.
- Bruichladdich distillery was built in 1881 by the Harvey Brothers and at the time it was viewed as a very modern establishment. It is situated in The Rhinns, in the west of the island, overlooking Loch Indaal
- Ardbeg distillery is located on the island of Islay, off the coast of Scotland. The distillery was founded in 1815 by John McDougall and has been in operation ever since. Ardbeg whisky is renowned for its smoky flavour
- Ardnahoe is Islay's newest distillery and produces a heavily peated, richly fruity spirit with a creamy, slightly oily consistency. Its still house provides stunning views out across the Sound of Islay.
